Enoch founded One Vision in 2018. He is a psychology graduate and has a wealth of experience working in retail. He is passionate about networking and bringing communities together and believes that together we can work more effectively for the greater good.

Enoch's passion is engaging with local community groups, charities and public services on issues which concern us all – equality, health, welfare, faith and youth. Working together ensures a smart approach to the sharing of resources, information and skills. His collaborative efforts reduced duplication as well as enhancing each group's delivery capability. Enoch continues to work diligently in the community to promote the message of being 'stronger together' and to strive to gain positive outcomes for those in most need.

In addition to his work at One Vision, Enoch is a Community Liaison leader and Stanborough Primary School's Governor. He is a family man and values time with his wife and two children.
